Our Calling to Select Leaders Based on Biblical Standards

By Mark A. Matta

Are you a person of Judeo-Christian faith? Do you have Biblical worldview, believing that God's Word, the Bible, is true and complete, the final authority for all decision-making? If you answer "yes" to these questions, then there is only one set of criteria that you can use for selecting the leaders for whom you vote, namely, Biblical standards.

Over the years, I've spoken with thousands of Judeo-Christian people, and I've been amazed at the criteria that some who claim to have a Biblical worldview use for the selection of leaders. While many of these people use Biblical standards as the criteria for mate selection, financial choices, the jokes they tell, the friends they keep, and the movies they watch, a surprising number abandon Biblical principles entirely when they step into the voting booth. It's a form of "worldview Schizophrenia" (a divided mind) where they use Biblical criteria for most decisions, but then completely discard Biblical standards at the ballot box.

Many vote based on family tradition, union affiliation, or political party line.

Some vote because of the personal appeal of a given candidate. Some vote based on race, color, sex, or ethnicity. But as "people of The Book" we're called to select "God fearing" leaders (Exod. 18:21) according to a Biblical standard, regardless of our tradition, affiliation, party, race, color, sex, age, or ethnicity.

For starters, we must seek to learn where the candidates stand on protecting life (Exod. 6:16-17) and marriage (Mark 10:6-9) -- the great moral issues of our day. This is where voter guides can help by providing non-partisan information about the candidates' values that would not be available elsewhere, and which increases candidate accountability.

It is my hope that people of Judeo-Christian faith will apply Biblical principles to all areas of life, including praying for our leaders (1 Tim. 2) and selecting God-honoring leaders (Exod, 18:21). It is my prayer that pastors, priests, and rabbis will strongly encourage us to register and vote, and to use Biblical criteria alone for selecting our leaders. These are non-partisan, unifying, loving, Biblical, moral ideas through which all people are blessed when we select God-honoring men and women to lead our local, state, and federal government, making good laws that bless our families, churches, neighborhoods, and businesses.

May the Judeo-Christian community rise to consistently pray for our leaders and nation, and to actively, lovingly advance Biblical values and God-honoring leaders who will protect life, marriage, and America's Biblical foundation, the source of our liberty to freely evangelize. History reveals clearly that where Jesus is honored and Biblical ideas are advanced by the preponderance of citizens, a nation and its people are blessed indeed (Psalm 33:12).

CALIFORNIA SUPREME COURT

3 California Supreme Court Candidates

(You will be asked to vote "yes" or "no.")

(Information below researched and provided by ElectionForum.org – more details available on the Internet)
Please read and then decide "yes" or "no."

Associate Justice Carlos Moreno -- appointed by former Governor Gray Davis, and recommended by Sen. Dianne Feinstein, has been on the Court since 2001. Voted to overturn traditional marriage with Proposition 23, and against parental consent.

Ming William Chin -- appointed to the Supreme Court in 1996 by Gov. Pete Wilson. Voted to overturn parental consent, consistent with his reportedly pro-abortion views. Voted in favor of traditional marriage and voted to uphold California's anti-affirmative action law.

Tani Cantil-Sakauye -- appointed as new California Supreme Court Chief Justice by committee of Governor Schwarzenegger, Jerry Brown, and Ron George. She is considered a "moderate." When the California Supreme Court legalized same-sex marriage, she reportedly performed a same-sex marriage. She upheld California's prohibition against affirmative action and religious free speech.
